
Welcome

Posted by Jay - 2007/07/02 21:20

I just wanted to take this opportunity to welcome all users to this new site. As an entrepreneur myself, I saw a need for a central point where similar-minded people could come together to share thoughts and make recommendations.

The articles on the site have been specifically submitted with the objective of helping YOU. There's so much to learn about setting up a new company and although it can be very exciting, it can also be daunting. I encourage you to share with one another any positive or negative experiences, so we can all grow together. If you have an article you feel would benefit fellow Cyberneur's please submit it.

I look forward to reading about your companies and welcome any comments or suggestions you have along the way :)

Jay

=====

Re:Welcome

Posted by Blanks - 2007/08/21 21:34

Jay wrote:

I just wanted to take this opportunity to welcome all users to this new site. As an entrepreneur myself, I saw a need for a central point where similar-minded people could come together to share thoughts and make recommendations.

The articles on the site have been specifically submitted with the objective of helping YOU. There's so much to learn about setting up a new company and although it can be very exciting, it can also be daunting. I encourage you to share with one another any positive or negative experiences, so we can all grow together. If you have an article you feel would benefit fellow Cyberneur's please submit it.

I look forward to reading about your companies and welcome any comments or suggestions you have along the way :)

Jay

Cheers Jay - This is a great site by the way, lots of great content. I'm sure it'll do well

=====

Re:Welcome

Posted by Foley - 2007/08/23 09:30

Jay wrote:

I just wanted to take this opportunity to welcome all users to this new site. As an entrepreneur myself, I saw a need for a central point where similar-minded people could come together to share thoughts and make recommendations.

The articles on the site have been specifically submitted with the objective of helping YOU. There's so much to learn about setting up a new company and although it can be very exciting, it can also be daunting. I encourage you to share with one another any positive or negative experiences, so we can all grow together. If you have an article you feel would benefit fellow Cyberneur's please submit it.

I look forward to reading about your companies and welcome any comments or suggestions you have along the way :)

Jay

Love this site - I'm sure it's going to be a great success
Good luck

=====